

Koherence

We all need solutions

The format

The standard Koherence package is a one day workshop; however, other arrangements can be made to accommodate your particular requirements.

The system

A set of integrated tools and techniques to get people thinking creatively, collaborating, and communicating.

Creativity

Tools to release peoples' knowledge and creativity supported by methods of thinking that help them thoroughly explore issues without conflict.

Collaboration

Scaffolding and processes to encourage and facilitate true collaboration, with people taking work forward coherently towards a shared goal.

Communication

Share data , information and knowledge through information systems that give leaders visibility. and people the information they need to gel the job done.

The challenge

On the day - identify possible solutions to issues that are currently troubling and disrupting the team. Solutions that provide positive results with in days or weeks, and can be developed to give the team the capabilities to deal with whatever the future holds.

The objectives

- Design and deploy solutions that help you solve problems, or grasp opportunities. and do this quickly.
- Create the environment where people can and want to collaborate .
- Provide the tools that make easy communication, interaction, and co-operation.
- Make sure people learn new skills that they can apply again and again.

About MCL Dynamics

We design systems for people. Systems to help them collaborate; to be creative, and effective; to acquire skills; to accumulate and share knowledge. It is people working in groups, in either public or private organisations, who will build the future we need. It is time to apply our knowledge and design skills to create systems with which people will build a better future.
